SMOKEY REPORTS

BOX SCORE OF FIRES IN SAN DIEGO COUNTY

Fires during past week	11
Fires to date this season	558
Fires to date last season	498
Acres burned to date this season	3,680
Acres burned to date last season	3,991
Structural damage	$302,395

HOWDY FOLKS:

Well, this brings us down to our final report for the season. Throughout the fire season we've tried to keep you informed on the fire situation, telling about the fires that have occurred, and passing along suggestions on how you could help prevent destructive fires. So far, and of course I say this with my paws crossed, we've gone through one of the most successful fire seasons in San Diego County. You can see that by the figures in the box score above.

Walt Puhn, Administrator of the Cleveland National Forest, and Jim Fenlon, State Division of Forestry Ranger for San Diego County, have asked me to express their appreciation for the wonderful cooperation they have received from the ranchers, the hunters and the public in general during a fire season that looked at the beginning as though it could be a bad one. It shows what is possible when everyone works together.

Also I've been asked to express appreciation to the publishers and editors of the some twenty community newspapers throughout San Diego and Imperial Counties for printing these reports. Without their help, they would not have been possible.

Regardless of the time of year, fire is always a threat to our homes and wild lands, so I'm hoping all of you will maintain the vigilance you have shown this past year. Best wishes to all of you.

SCHOOL NEWS . . .

By ART STONE

Open House in Lakeside Schools

The Lakeside and Lindo Park Schools wil hold open house November 20, 1952, from 7:30 to 9:30 p. m. This is one of the few times during the year that the teachers and pupils have a chance to show what they are doing. The teachers are able to meet with many parents and exing the school year. This year's developed in their class.

The work of the children can be seen through the excellent displays and bulletin boards in each class. Every child has an opportunity to show what progress he is making in his classroom work. It is hoped that each parent will make an attempt to view his child's materials.

American Education Week. November 10 through November 15 is a specific time when parents are invited to visit schools. However it has always been the policy of our district to welcome interested parents any time durplain the program that is being open house will be held November 20, 1952. The general program will begin at 7:30 p. m., in the Cafetorium rooms at each school. At this time, Miss Leahy and Mr. Pruyne, Principals of the Lindo Park and Lakeside Schools, respectively, will explain to all visitors the type of program they may see throughout the rest of the evening. At 8:00 p. m. all visitors will go to the room or rooms they desire most to see. Our faculty will use the first thirty minutes of the hour to explain their class program. This will be followed by a thirty minute question and answer period. At 9 p. m. refreshments will be served in the Cafetorium.

Teachers Visit Other Schools.

November 10th is the first day of American Education Week, and will also be a day of extra learning for our teachers. The staff of the Lakeside Union School District will visit various schools of the Lemon Grove District. This is the third year that a visitation day has been instituted. The opportunity of seeing what other schools are doing and how they do it, has been very profitable. The teachers have a chance to see how a specific subject is presented. Before going to the Lemon Grove District, each teacher is required to state the grade level or subject he wants to observe. This allows the Lemon Grove administration to schedule our people so they can visit the proper classes.

Many new ideas are seen and many teaching techniques are obtained. It is always the desire of the teachers to improve their teaching methods. The observation of other teachers helps to show whether a good enough job is being done or whether a small change can be used. Our students are the people that reap the benefits from this visit to other schools. Any way a teacher can learn to put across a program that will enable the boys and girls to learn, is a big step forward.

School To Be Closed

Not only will schools be closed Monday, Nov. 10th, because of the teachers visitation day, but also on Tuesday, Nov. 11th, Armistice Day, a legal holiday.

Community Chest

The entire staff of the Lakeside School District became the first organization in this community to meet its goal in the Red Feather Drive. The certificated, as well non-certificated, not only met its goal but subscribed 50% more than it had been asked.

Two YMCA Clubs In Lakeside School

Again this year two YMCA clubs will be in operation in the Lakeside elementary school. The Gra-Y Club for boys 9 through 12 years old will be under Mr. James Peters, former Gra-Y boys worker who has worked in the YMCA program for several years.

The Jr. Hi-Y Club for boys in the seventh and eighth grades will be under Mr. Charles Lucas, a newcomer into the Jr. Hi-Y field.

Jr. Hi-Y is a fellowship group working together to serve the community and school and to emphasize the spiritual aspect found in all YMCA clubs.

Among the many events that are planned for the group some will be swimming at the YMCA in San Diego, sports tournaments, camping trips, parents night, discussion, Jr. Hi-Y rallies and various other activities.

The Lakeside Jr. Hi-Y Club is sponsored by the San Diego County YMCA, a Red Feather Agency.

GARFIELD IN LEAD

At press time, the race for judgeship between Thacher and Garfield stood at 15,004 for Garfield, and 12,664 for Thacher, 126 precincts reporting out of 134.

This gives Garfield a lead of 2340 that will be hard to overcome with only eight precincts left to report.

The way it looks, Garfield is elected.

WHY NOT A NATIONAL BLOOD DONATION MONTH?

Every week there is a national week of some kind. Last week it was national pop corn week. Is there any reason why there isn't a month set aside as Blood Donation month?

Do you realize that some boys are given as much as thirty quarts of blood to keep them alive from the time they are wounded on the front lines in Korea until they get to a rear area hospital or hospital ship.

The entertainers have gone all out to try to keep up the morale of the boys over in Korea and Japan. Two years ago this week, Al Jolson died, a death that undoubtedly was brought about by his strenuous schedule of entertaining in Korea. He died only a few days after returning from the front lines where he had gone against the advice of his physician. Frances Langford, the well known singer, who entertained the troops so much during World War II, has just returned from Korea and was immediately hospitalized for nasal operations due to a disease commonly called Korean Krud. Sure, it isn't listed in the medical books but ask your son or neighbors' son if they were overseas and they'll tell you all about it.

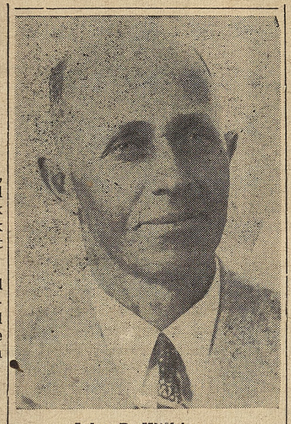
We can't all go to Korea to entertain the fellows, may God take care of those who can, but we can all go down to the blood bank every ninety days and donate a pint of blood to help preserve the life of those who are over there fighting against Communism.

There's a sergeant in the Veteran's hospital at Los Angeles whose words of wisdom might help you to get the courage or take the time to give a little blood every three months. He said, "If I were to have a choice between being my old self again and live in a Communist dominated country or be as I am now, with the loss of both legs and one arm, and live in the free United States, I would still take America's freedom."

Today, not tomorrow, make the arrangements to get a carload of your neighbors together and go to blood bank at Park and University to give to Yanks who gave. It doesn't hurt you and then get the habit and have a neighborhood bank night every three months.

(Editor's Note: If our sons are to be drafted to save this nation, blood can be drafted to save our sons.)

Lakeside Pioneer Passes On



John B. Wilkinson

John B. Wilkinson, Lakeside pioneer and civic leader, died in Oregon Friday, Oct. 31, while on vacation trip.

John, a charter member of the Lakeside Farm Bureau, was a tireless worker for that organization.

Among his other activities was the school district of which he was a trustee for many years until his resignation last summer.

John spared no time or effort where Lakeside schools were concerned and today's schools owe him much.

In addition he was a director of the 22nd Agricultural district and Federal Land Bank of El Cajon, a member of the Soil Conservation Committee and one of the organizers of the County Dairymen's League.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Nellie Wilkinson, three sons, Russell and Arthur, of Lakeside, and William, of Santee; two daughters, Mrs. Florence Katzenbach, of Santee, and Mrs. Grace Swearingen, of San Diego.

Interment will be at 11 a. m. today at Greenwood Memorial Park.

Red Feather Fund Starts Big Push On Million Dollar Goal

The national election over, Greater San Diego's United Red Feather Fund will swing back on the campaign trail this week and begin a concentrated effort to reach its $1,050,570 goal.

Originally scheduled to end the 31st of October, the million-dollar campaign was extended another month because of the community's preoccupation with the election.

Velma Lake, Chairman of the local Community Chest Drive reparted that we are still short of our goal of $1500 by $410.

Those of you who have not contributed may bring or send your donations to the Chest headquarters at the Lakeside Builders Store.

Many of the divisions and areas participating in the mammoth campaign have been under strength, said Richard A. Nelson, president and campaign chairman of the Fund, because volunteers who normally would have worked on the drive were devoting their time to the political campaign.

Now that the election is concluded, Nelson has asked that these individuals assist in making the Red Feather drive a success.

"We must not lose sight of the importance of the Red Feather Fund," Nelson warned. "It's purpose is to combine the appeals of 56 health and welfare agencies serving this area into one united appeal."

"If we fail in this united effort," Nelson said, "we have failed in our responsibility to the community in which we live."

"If we do not reach our million-dollar goal, each of the agencies will have but three alternatives," Nelson said. "They will have to close their doors, sharply curtail their activities, or make separate appeals to the public."

Every one of these is what we are trying to avoid."

The drive has yet to reach half of its all-time high goal, Nelson said, but he expressed optimism over the possibilities of a rapid clean-up campaign this month.

"Let's all get behind this drive," Nelson said, "and do a job we can be justly proud of."

Plan For Youth Center

It has been suggested that a Youth Center for Lakeside is needed. After a questionnaire issued to seventh and eighth grade students it was found that the need is definitely great.

At the Welfare meeting Wednesday evening Mrs. Polk and Mrs. Maloney gave their reports on available buildings and the requirements to maintain a Youth Club.

Some funds are available at this time to begin the program. If the planning committee which will consist of a representative from various organizations in Lakeside deem it advisable, a building and director will be selected for the Lakeside Youth Center.

Ruth Klippel Writes from Alaska

Dear Lakesiders & Friends:

This letter is being sandwiched in between making doughnuts and baking bread. I figured it all up, the other day. I can make two loaves of bread and four dozen doughnuts for the total sum of 89 cents. With the cost of bread at 40 cents a loaf and doughnuts 80 cents a dozen, I figure I can save at least $3.00. My time isn't worth much around here anyway. So I am baking bread and making doughnuts, but I don't think I want to compete with Bob and Marg Watkins, when I get home.

I have received several letters encouraging me to keep writing these letters, so you who aren't interested in them will just have to skip them, if by chance they are published. Of course I'll have to admit it doesn't take much to encourage me to write as I just love to write. Even Barbara Conley way down there in Ketchikan wrote me after reading my letter. Of course I won't mention her comment, you know Barbara.

Do you know what "termination dust" is? Well, it finally caught up with us a couple of Sundays ago, four inches of the fluffy white snow lay on the ground by Monday morning. Since about the middle of Sept.

Warren Proclaims Defense Exercises

Gov. Earl Warren has proclaimed a state-wide command post exercise, for the 10 regions of the state office of Civil Defense, for Sunday, Nov. 23, from 8 a. m. to 8 p. m.

Participation in the simulated emergency drill will extend to the 10 regional control centers of the state, and to the communication centers of San Diego and Imperial Counties, as well as of the incorporated cities of San Diego County. The two counties and their incorporated cities comprise Region 10 of the state organization for Civil Defense. In the previous exercise, held in August, participation extended only to state regional staffs.

Adm. Frederick C. Sherman (USN, Ret.) Civil Defense coordinator for Region 10 said: "The incorporated cities of San Diego County, (San Diego, Chula Vista, Coronado, El Cajon, Escondido, La Mesa, National City and Oceanside), as well as San Diego County and the joint cities-county organization of Imperial County, have been invited to participate. San Diego County has its communication center at Lemon Grove and Imperial County at El Centro. It is anticipated that the exercise will involve more than 500 persons in the various centers concerned. This will be the first real coordinating test conducted between the regional control center and the political subdivisions included in the regional organization and it will test the ability of the organization to meet an emergency created by a real or simulated enemy air attack on this area."

"In this region, the regional staff conduct the actual operations of the various services required such as fire, law enforcement, rescue, welfare, and radiological defense, while the cities and counties provide the manpower and equipment within their capabilities to enable the services to function. Communications between the regional control center and the several communities are essential to the mobilization and operation of these services during a period of extreme emergency. These communications will be tested during the exercise on Nov. 23."

The participating centers will be manned in three shifts from 8 a .m. to 6 p. m. and drill messages will be sent back and forth simulating disaster conditions. The various services will be called upon to meet problems as they arise and multiply. Such services as fire, police, evacuation and welfare, transportation, radiological, communications, first aid, medical, supply, engineering, utilities, and traffic control will call upon all available "resources" and "manpower" to come to the assistance of stricken areas and move "disaster victims" from one area to another.

Coronado Islands Yield Large Catches

Although lowering ocean temperatures left marlin fishermen with the feeling that the spikebill season might be running on borrowed time, that was just what the doctor ordered for bottom fishermen and San Diego sportfishing boats made consistent catches of red cod and white fish all last week.

Colder water caused the big red cod to gang up in the deep water rocky holes off the Coronado Islands, and limit catches were the rule rather than the exception last weekend.

Among the El Cajon rod and reelers who bagged their full quotas of these choice table fish were: Eleanor and Harvey Cox, W. C. Hodge, G. Moon, Jimmy Trelikes, S. H. Oliver, D. J. Jepson, and Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Cole.

Marlin appeared to be concentrated off Point La Jolla, but rod and reelers were having trouble interesting them in bait. Stewart Depew, of San Diego, bagged a 166½ pounder last Thursday to start another stampede among anglers who hoped to be the last to bring in a fish this season.

MANY LIMITS TAKEN BY NIMRODS

A brief run-down on results of the first week of duck hunting in local areas was released today by the Outing Bureau of the Automobile Club of Southern California.

During opening weekend, 215 ducks were bagged at Morena Lake, 204 at Lake Barrett, 1118 at Lower Otay, 195 at Upper Otay and 393 at Hodges. Many limits were taken at Henshaw and Buena Vista Lakes.

Hunting was good during the first couple days of the season at the Big Bear-Baldwin lake area, the Outing Bureau said.

In the Wasco area, many limits were bagged. Limits and near-limits were registered in the Bishop area where many mallards appeared.

Irvine Lake and the Salton Sea were both good during the first of the season, but slow since. Wardens predict hunting will remain slow until storms in the north send more flights to the area.

BASS FISHING REPORTED GOOD

Trout season ended Friday, October 31, but fresh-water anglers wil find that bass fishing has been good along the Colorado, the Outing Bureau of the Automobile Club of Southern California said today.

Bass season is open all year in Southern California and along the Colorado River.

Plugs and live bait have brought good results in the Lake Mead area, while fair catches of trout have been reported at Lake Mohave.

Many good catches of bass and blue gill have been taken at Shorty's Camp at Tapock, where a 35-pound channel cat was brought in last week. Catfish have been biting on shrimp, and blue gill have been biting on worms and li cut.

In San Diego County, bass fishing has been good at Lake Henshaw. The lake has been fair for crappie and blue gill. Henshaw is open every day.

San Vicente has been good for perch. It is open Wednesdays, Saturdays and Sundays. Other San Diego city reservoirs are closed to fishing until after duck season ends Jan. 1.

Real Estate and Building

A REALTOR'S VIEW . . .

By Ned A. Bowker, Pres., El Cajon Valley Real Estate Board

NED A. BOWKER

A great many of the colleges and universities throughout the country are each year, adding real estate classes and many are giving a more complete course than was formally given.

This is not only helpful to those who intend to make real estate their future business, but it is also helpful in giving the younger generation a better understanding of the values in owning real estate. Whether or not all who take a course in real estate selling become real estate salesmen or women it gives them a better opportunity to more fully realize the advantages of owning their own home or business.

In the past few years there have been more young people who have purchased real estate than at any time in the history of our country, mainly due to the veterans financing, and many of these young buyers have built large equities in their properties and it has been a way for them to save money that otherwise would have been spent. Others have sold and taken their profits and built it into larger amounts because it gave them capital to work with. There are naturally many who sold and have long since spent the money that they made from the sale of their property, but for the most of them it is giving them a chance to save that is the easy way; and that is making payments on their own property.

THAT'S GRATITUDE

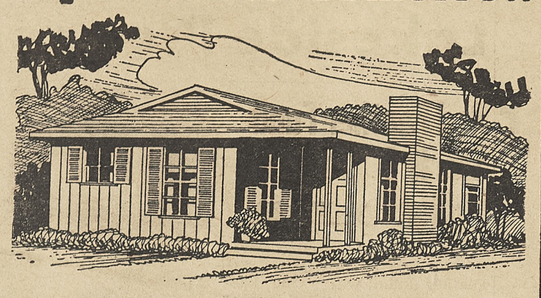
My Home of Tomorrow



By F. C. DIEDERICKS
Home Planning Editor

Thih two bedroom home of 890 square feet has been so arranged that a minimum of hallway and waste space is achieved and as a result large rooms and closets are incorporated. It is pleasingly designed and both the interior and the exterior are most satisfactorily decorated.

LIVING—DINING ROOM

The living room and the dining area are neatly combined. A design of this sort gives the appearance of a much larger room generally and in finishing these rooms an attractive color combination and furniture relationship can be used. The large fireplace is an essential item and is located so that it is visible fully to both areas. Ample wall space is provided for arranging furniture.

KITCHEN

This long narrow kitchen is ideal for real convenience in preparing the meals. A cabinet is placed beside the refrigerator for added workspace in connection with frozen foods. The sink workspace is long and convenient and lighted from outside by the window over the sink. The front end of this room is left free of fixtures so that it can be used for an informal eating space or room for a planning desk or worktable. Directly accessible to the kitchen is a large service porch containing ample room for the necessary plumbing and also the washing machine. Notice that all the plumbing is along the left wall of the building and not strung out throughout the building.

BEDROOMS

Because of the additional space picked up by the elimination of extensive hallways both bedrooms are nice sized considering the overall size of the house. The smaller room has a large single sliding door wardrobe and the larger room has a split double type wardrobe. The location of the windows is, of course, subject to change depending on the owner's desires and the directional location of the house and any view which might be considered.

GENERAL NOTES

An extra storage china closet and a guest coat closet are shown dotted in on the floor plan between the living room and the dining room. If this feature is included it is advisable not to make these closet full height, as in leaving them low the ceiling appears to be continuous over the combined area making it seem larger. The exterior finish is shown as all wood siding set vertically. However, stucco can be used in part or in whole as desired. The brick chimney, shutters, and the "clipped" roof make this home quite attractive and an asset to any area.

PLANS AVAILABLE

Building blue prints of this house, No. 563, including floor plans and elevations, are available at $7.50 for the first set and ~~$6.25~~ for each additional set, when ordered through this newspaper.

WASHINGTON AND "SMALL BUSINESS"

By C. WILSON HARDER

* * *

His current actions, plus the recent release of the long secret Federal Trade Commission report on the worldwide oil monopoly to the Senate Small Business Committee, could, and may, blow the lid off the cosy control plan of Big Oil.

* * *

C. W. Harder

A British firm, Anglo-Iranian, had the oil concession in Iran. The FTC report shows this British company is linked with Standard and other U.S. companies, to peg oil prices.

* * *

Iran disagreed with the royalties paid for its irreplaceable petroleum. The merit of the issue is a matter for conjecture. The FTC report states Persian Gulf Oil sold to the U. S. Navy for $1.05 during the war, and to the Marshall Plan for $1.88, costs from 27 to 40 cents per barrel to produce including royalties.

* * *

Perhaps the wily Persian took the viewpoint that if the world must pay such high prices for oil, Iran should get more.

* * *

The situation now became involved. Iran has 2 million tons of oil to ship, but no buyers.

* * *

None of the major American companies have made a move to buy oil from Iran despite their claims of fierce competition in the oil industry. Independent U. S. oilmen do not dare buy Iranian oil.

* * *

© National Federation of Independent Business

So in a non-communist world of supposedly free trade, that world is confronted with a buyer ready and able to sell, and no buyers.

* * *

Mossadegh has worked State Department into tight corner.

* * *

For one thing, State Department offered Iran $10 million in U. S. taxpayers' cash to settle a claim Iran has against British Anglo-Iranian. It was refused.

* * *

State Secretary Dean Acheson then made the most startling offer of all. In writing he stated that the following condition "the freedom of Iran to sell its oil on other than a monopoly basis" is acceptable to the U. S. Thus, for the first time in years a high level U. S. official has recognized publicly monopoly practices in oil industry.

* * *

This official recognition of an oil monopoly, plus the Federal Trade Commission report on a world oil monopoly, could be the start of restoring the petroleum industry to a status of free competition, restoring opportunity to independent U. S. oilmen.

* * *

Consumers could also be relieved of the burden of an artificially supported price structure.

* * *

Big Oil seeks to establish the entire matter as Russian inspired. However, for a year Iran has had oil to sell, and despite boycott has not sold Russia.

* * *

While in desperation Iran may eventually be forced to the Russian market, it will be monopoly forcing that move. The entire fight with Iran has been to save the oil monopoly. If Iranian oil were sold to independents as well as the monopolists, it could end the cosy arrangement by which British and American interests peg oil prices around the world.

HONEY LARCENY

LEBANON, N. H. — Philip Townsend, who didn't let the fact that his great-great-grandfather was stung to death prevent him from becoming a major bee farmer in a 45-year career, describe his apiary business as "the only legitimate robbery."

Watch Those Gas Heaters

With the coming of the winter season, Director of Industrial Relations Paul Scharrenberg issued a warning today to all State residents regarding the use of unvented gas heaters.

A necessary precaution before placing heating equipment in use is to have it checked and adjusted.

A few other simple rules should be observed. Before retiring, turn off the heater. Leave windows open to admit a sufficient amount of air. Do not use the oven for room heating.

Each winter many people die unnecessarily from carbon monoxide poisoning or burns received from open-flame unvented heaters.

Such equipment also creates a heavy humid condition within a room.

These factors contributed heavily to the consideration given by the Legislature in adopting amendments to the State Housing Act in 1951, prohibiting the use of unvented non-approved gas appliances.

ME AND MY SHADOW

STURGIS, Mich. — Mrs. Mary A. Smith thought the closely following truck she saw in her rear view mirror wanted to pass. She slowed down. The truck slowed down. She speeded up and the truck stayed right behind her. Then she discovered the truck's bumper was locked with hers and she was towing it. She continued around the block to her starting point just in time to meet the driver of the truck who was returning from lunch.

COLOR LINE

DETROIT — The traditional "Black Maria" is on the way out in Detroit where the police department soon will receive five new patrol wagons painted "a purplish green." Commissioner Donald S. Leonard said the new color was adopted because the wagons were used these days to take accident victims to hospitals oftener than they were to haul prisoners and "there's no point to adding insult to injury."

PROFESSOR IS GOOD

WINOOSKI PARK, Vt. — Dr. Henry Lemaire, chemistry professor at St. Michael's College, pitched a 4-0 no hitter against a freshmen softball team to cap an intramural league playoff.

DARKNESS FATAL

CLEVELAND, O. — Half the pedestrian deaths occur between six p. m. and midnight, the Cleveland bureau of street and traffic lighting reports.

TANDEM DRIVING

DETROIT — Traffic Judge George T. Murphy said two drivers are too many for one car and gave 10-day jail sentences to Horace Gillam, 27, and his brother William, 28. By Langlois

It's all over so now we can start to gripe about something else.

I called the turn on this one with the result that I will be well stocked with liquid refreshments for some time to come. I'll need all of it as I look forward to the antics of McCarthy, Jenner and Taft.

Seeing that since the last election I have been having my stomach upset with the gyrations of Vaughn, Snyder, Maragon, mink coats, ice boxes and what have you, I don't imagine that the incoming bunch will do much worse although I expect them to do as well always bearing in mind that virtue is not a trade mark of either party.

Having been a spectator to quite a few elections in the past half century I feel that we'll bungle our way through somehow.

There being no question about how the majority of people felt in this election it's up to all the losers to get behind the new president and pray, pray, pray that he can stand that grind a full four years.

Not having made any specific promises or taken a stand on any issue the way is fairly clear. However, I am looking forward to seeing my boy come home now that the Korean War is going to come to a quick, successful conclusion with the change of administration.

Also a cut in taxes. There's no question but what the tax on good Rye or Bourbon is too high. That goes for cigarettes. Been getting so that the pleasures of life are plumb out of reach.

All in all the buck is going to be worth one hundred cents so that it will buy something.

Here's hoping we can get our hands on a buck when it reaches that point.

Summing it up a change was wanted and a change we'll get. Whether it be for the better or worse time will tell and time goes by in a hurry.

Ike has our best wishes.

FRONTIER HOOFBEATS . . .

BOB WEBB

First of all, please let me correct an error in the last issue concerning the next regular meeting of the Frontier Riders. It will be on November 12 instead of the date previously announced here. The nominating committee is hard at work, making selections for the offices to be refilled soon. By the way, if you are not a member of the Frontier Riders, and are interested in horseback riding and meeting people with the same interest you have, come to a meeting and get acquainted. We'd love to meet you! The meetings are held in the Scout Hut, in Lakeside Park.

Some of the members of the Riders had a lot of fun last Sunday. Barbara Shnure, Anna and Thelma Meyers and two junior riders left from Meyers home in San Vicente Farms and rode up the fire trial toward San Vicente Lake and many inviting trails in the vicinity. They relate some rather exciting experiences on the rough terrain West of the Lake. Their horses, trustworthy and quick-thinking animals, in spite of the fact that some of them are not veteran trail horses, found their way over rocks and gullies to the safe lowlands again, to the relief of their riders. When they arrived at Meyers once again, it was discovered that Blanche Taylor and Tommy Underhill had trailered there to join them, but were too late, so took a ride to the Lake on their own. While awaiting their return, the riders had fun loading their mounts in the trailer, just to see if they could do so. It is a trick to get some horses in a trailer, you know. Barbara was so proud and pleased when her mare walked in as though she had been trailered all her life. It was the first time she had been in a trailer! Good going, Barbara!

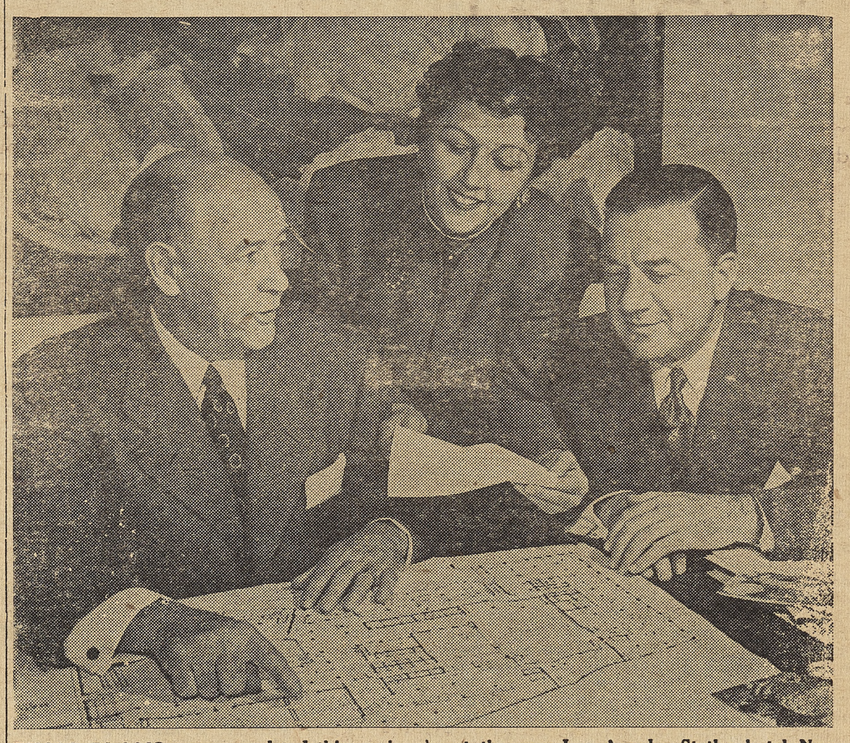
Western Growers Meet Nears



FINAL PLANS were completed this week by C. B. Moore, managing director of Western Growers Association (left) with Miss Anne Kelly, office manager, and Frank W. Castiglione, assistant secretary, for the 27th annual convention of the California-Arizona growers of commercial vegetables and melons. Meeting, representing more than 90% of the producers in the two western states, will be held at the new Los Angeles Statler hotel Nov. 12-13 and 14.

More than 800 producers, packers, shippers, equipment suppliers, railroad and truck carriers, will discuss important growing, harvesting, packaging, shipping and marketing problems faced by the industry which produces about one-half of all commercial vegetables and melons in the United States, valued at more than $400,000,000.

AD LIB COOKING

MUNFORD, Tenn. — A vivacious high school co-ed who used a "dump of this and a dump of that" to win Tipton county's breadmaker crown, says it's a shame the way some housewives are slaves to the measuring cup. "I just dump things in and start stirring and when it looks right—I always know," Mary Bomar explained.

TWINS RULE CLASS

POLITICAL PARADE

By CLEM WHITAKER, JR.

Having just witnessed one of the greatest political battles in the Nation's history for control of the White House, America's voters may arch eyebrows over a new entertaining and informative collection of biographies, "After The White House", by Asa E. Martin, professor emeritus of American history at Pennsylvania State College.

Professor Martin makes it clear that the 24 men who have survived the rigors of the U. S. presidency were generally more than happy on leaving the office.

George Washington, on leaving the White House, stated "I would rather be in my grave than in the Presidency."

"Never did a prisoner, released from chains, feel such relief," was the concise comment of Thomas Jefferson, as he retired from office.

Near the end of his term of office, James K. Polk remarked: "I will soon cease to be a servant and become a sovereign."

Nor did Rutherford B. Hayes enjoy his tenure in office: "I am heartily tired of this life of bondage, responsibility, and toil," he declared.

Grover Cleveland, twice an ex-President, stated at the end of his first term: "You cannot imagine the relief which has come to me with the termination of my official term." Cleveland, however, spent his retirement working, successfully, for re-election to the Presidency.

Benjamin Harrison, on his retirement, declared: "There has never been an hour since I left the White House that I have felt a wish to return to it."

Calvin Coolidge's biographer stated of his last 24 hours of office, "He went to bed a prince whose glory was fading. He awoke March 4, 1929 a country town lawyer without a practice."

Herbert Hoover, only living ex-President, has said "Mrs. Hoover and I found abundant compensations from being kicked out of a job after 20 years of strenuous public service."

In his book, Professor Martin indicates that many of the United States Presidents retired from office in dire financial straits. James Madison, James Monroe, Ulysses S. Grant, had the most trying money troubles.

Why do men fight for an office their predecessors were often so glad to quit? It's a question, that having just witnessed an all-out bid for the presidency, most of us would find hard if not impossible to answer.

While men may rail at the presidency on leaving, however, there never has been a dearth of candidates seeking the offeice.

That now you can protect a blister or rubbed place on your foot without spotlighting it with a conspicuous bandage. Even under the sheerest hose the new ready-to-apply, flesh-colored plastic strip bandages are close to being invisible because they blend with the skin tone. They are completely waterproof and their smooth surface sheds dirt. You can wash them clean without loosening them or washing them off.

HELPING? IN THE WINE VINTAGE

C.N.P.A. NEWS SERVICE

Report from the wine district where this scene was shot: "Whole day lost in wine grape crush when visited by Virginia Best, 'Miss California Wine of 1952.' Suggest she be kept under wraps until due to reign as Queen of National Wine Week, [illegible] Virginia's visit to the vineyard didn't seem to distract that picker in the background from her job of gathering grapes for this year's fine California wines. Oh, well, that's probably just feminine jealousy—or maybe she's on piece work. Others will surely find it difficult to disagree with the state's wine growers, who picked this Menlo Park beauty as the symbol of pleasures awaiting your discovery in the wines of California.

Farewell Party

Mesdames Helen Stover and Rosemary Russell were the honored guests at a farewell party Thursday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Edna Kouns. Mr. and Mrs. Bob Russell and Mrs. Stover are leaving this week for Colorado where they will establish their now home to be near Mr. Russell's parents who are getting along in years.

Delightful refreshments of a decorated cake and fancy shaped sandwiches were served with tea and coffee, decorations being carried out in the Hallowe'en motif.

Many of their friends numbering around fifty dropped in to wish them good luck and both ladies were recipients of beautiful hankies and other useful gifts.

Mrs. Kouns was assisted by her mother, Mrs. Stuart Swink, Mesdames V. K. Polk, Dane Carender, Joe Pignatelli, Russell Johnson, Ted Sherman and Earl Wolcott.

Bob Russell and his family were detained from leaving for Colorado because of an eye injury received by Mr. Russell while working on his car. Two splinters of steel were removed from his eye.

Son For Eddie Morton's

Little Daniel B. Morton arrived October 16th to Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Morton. He weighed 5½ pounds at birth. Mr. and Mrs. Fred Morton are the proud paternal grandparents, and Mr. and Mrs. Glen Tate of Hemet are the material grandparents. Both baby and mother are doing splendidly.

For Garden Lovers

How many feel that they would like to belong to a Garden Club?

There is a definite need in Lakeside for a Garden Club, especially since we do not have an adult garden educational class. It will greatly aid the newcomers to our area, for through it they can become acquainted with our plants and methods.

A Garden Club will serve to stimulate the knowledge and love of gardening among amateurs, to aid in the protection of native plants, and to better the practices of the more experienced amateurs. A Garden Club will represent a definite step upward in the development of our community.

As spring comes most people feel an urge to dig in the nice clean dirt, either for the purpose of easing the grocery bill, or beautifying their homes. All those interested in becoming a member of a Garden Club in Lakeside, please call H4-6381 at your earliest convenience. If enough interest is shown a meeting date will be announced in the next issue of this paper.

GROSSMONT GATHERINGS . . .

By Ava J. Gillard

We may not be old enough to vote the real way, but we can vote our way, which is just what we are doing. When the "Grown Ups" go to the polls to vote, the "half grown ups" will go to their poll to do their bit in the mock election.

The election will be carried on the same way it is done in the real election. The students will go to a place where the initial of their last name is. There he will get his name marked off the list and he will be given a ballot with the names of the candidate running. In the booth there will be a stamp with a "X" on it. He will put the "X" by the name of his favorite candidate. When he is through he will fold his ballot and drop it into the ballot box.

Of course, our voting won't take as long as the "real thing" does, but it is carried out in the same manner.

The FFA (Future Farmers of America) are sponsoring Loretta Elms, Billie June Allison, Joan Bjork, Mary Lou Wilson, Lanell Williams, Barbara Tuttle, Faye Dianich, Joan Francisco, Barbara Wison, Martha McDonald and Doris Sanders for the title of "Harvest Queen." Five of these girls will compete for the honor of "Queen of the Harvest Ball."

The ball will be held on November 26, at Grossmont auditorium.

Girl Scout And Brownie Newsettes

The meetings of October 22 and 29 were devoted to free play periods.

In honor of Girl Scout Week which started Sunday, Oct. 26, all the Brownies from Troop 598, together with their leader Mrs. Frank Marco and co-leader Mrs. Stanley Wood, attended the service at the Lakeside Community Church in a group.

Hallowe'en party invitations were as follows:

From 6 to 8 on Hallowe'en night
When goblins prowl and witches take flight,
Mrs. Rulik wants to make a date with Brownies 598
To come to her house for an eve of fun.
And there'll be games and a snack for everyone,
In costume or not makes no diff to me,
It's you I want to see.

This is the invitation which meant a party was brewing. The house was decorated with jack-o-lanterns, black cats and black and orange crepe paper streamers.

After several games and refreshments of donuts and fruit punch, the girls each received an apple favor made with jelly bean faces to resemble jack-o-lanterns and a perky ribbon bow for a hat.

Mmes. Marco, Woods and Petersen assisted Mrs. Rulik the hostess.

At the November 5th meeting, the girls hiked from Lindo Park School to Lindo Park where cookies were served before returning to school. Mesdames Marco and Woods, co-leader, and Mrs. Rulik, committee chairman, accompanied the girls.

As a complete surprise to the members of the Club, small diaper napkins were passed around with tiny verses enclosed revealing the anticipated birth of a baby to Mr. and Mrs. Donald Nelson sometime next April which will make Mr. and Mrs. Ernie Nelson the proud grandparents.

Mrs. Fred Morton passed around cashew nuts announcing the birth of their newly arrived grandson to Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Morton, their son and daughter-in-law.

Hallowe'en refreshments and decorations were carried out.

Wot Goes On . . .

By Millie

Now that it's all over, the shouting has ceased, the bandwagons have quit playing their tunes, and the Republicans are back in office, we can all settle down to normal living once again we hope and wait and see what is going to happen. One thing we should do and that is stop griping and back General Eisenhower 100% in all that confronts us in the future. Both sides have done an awful lot of mud slinging and to me it's poor Americanism. The people have voted and selected their choice and we hope that our new leader will find some solution to the Korean war and bring our sons back home. Whether you are a Democrat or Republican let's unite and work together.

Another prominent citizen has passed on to the great beyond. A fine respected gentleman was John B. Wilkinson who has lived in Lakeside for over forty years. Men who have lived here that long, raised a large family together with his late wife Hazel, are pillars in the growth and prosperity of our community. He was always on the job either serving with the School as their chairman of trustees, or working on some committee or other for the Farm Bureau, and other organizations. In the past few years John has not been a well man, but he never gave up. We will miss John Wilkinson here in Lakeside, and I want to express my deepest sympathy to the children upon the loss of their dad.

Fall is here, and everywhere you look the evidence is there. Leaves on many of the trees are beginning to turn a golden color, and the ground is being covered with the dropping leaves. The evenings are chilly, but the days are still warm and luscious which makes one want to pack up a lunch and take off for the day. The first rains should arrive before too long, which will settle the dust and also add a few more drops to our lake which is beginning to look promising. The hundreds of young cottonwood trees which are sprouting all over the lake bottom will look more like a forest one of these days if they are not removed soon.

I attended the Hallowe'en Carnival over at Lindo Park School last Friday evening and was thrilled to see such a wonderful turn out, and such a fine affair. Everything was well planned with booths spread out so the youngsters had all the room in the world to run and have fun. Mothers were busily working everywhere as were teachers as well as fathers. I could see no evidence of any mischief done in our neighborhood, and feel we owe our P. T. A. a vote of thanks for this wonderful party given to our children. We adults enjoyed it too, and everyone was either drinking coffee, cider punch, or munching on home made candies, cakes and pies which were on hand. Of course, the ever popular hot dogs and hamburgers were eaten to help keep everyone's tummy well filled. And those responsible for the mop and pail brigade after it was all over are also to be thanked as that is always the biggest job of all.

Another benefit is coming up this Friday evening at the Memorial Bldg. and you are all urged to attend this Variety Show which has all the promises of being a top performance. The Optimists are in charge of this event and proceeds will go toward improving the stage at the Memorial Bldg. It is a worthwhile cause, so why not come out Friday night and join all your neighbors and friends in an evening of entertainment. The time is 8:00 p. m. folks.

Have you heard about TV set and Turkey that the M & H Market are giving away for Thanksgiving to some lucky person? You better get over to that store and get your free tickets given when you do your shopping there.

Don't miss the big "Hunt Canned Goods" sale at Barkers this week. They really have some outstanding specials, so stock up your shelves, neighbors. It pays to shop at home - Read the Star for these bargains here in Lakeside.

Man Given Dominion Christian Science Lesson Declares

How mankind may turn from the state of fallen man to the practical use of God-given dominion is told in the Sunday Lesson-Sermon on "Adam and Fallen Man" in all Christian Science churches.

The Golden Text is from Romans (5:17): "If by one man's offence death reigned by one; much more they which receive abundance of grace and of the gift of righteousness shall reign in life by one, Jesus Christ."

Bible selections from Genesis (1:27,31; 2:1) declare, "So God created man in his own image, in the image of God created he him; . . . and God saw every thing that he had made, and, behold, it was very good . . . Thus the heavens and the earth were finished, and all the host of them.'"

"God fashions all things, after His own likeness," says Mary Baker Eddy in "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures." She continues, "Man, made in His likeness, possesses and reflects God's dominion over all the earth. Man and woman as coexistent and eternal with God forever reflects, in glorified quality, the infinite Father-Mother God" (p. 516).

SAN DIEGO GAS & ELECTRIC COMPANY

—Writes From Alaska

it has been getting closer and closer to us here in the lowlands. Each rain we had would bring the snow further down the mountain sides. The out-of-doors working folks call it "termination dust," because most of the outside work terminates when the snow falls. For several weeks now the snow has been decorating the tops and sides of the Chugach and Susitna Mts., like frosting on a cake, traveling further down their rugged sides with each rain, in the valley.

My brother, Chas. Foster, has been up to see us several times since I last wrote. He is still at Seward. It was pouring down rain the first trip, I believe he floated up, that was some rain, considering it is uphill most of the way. The other times he drove his new fire-engine red G. M. C. pickup. Since his job on the Seward Airport terminated he has been working for the city of Seward, using his "cat" D-8 helping the Water Department with their ditches, pipe-lines, rock dam and setting up of their large water storage tanks.

About the sixth of Sept. Bob and Barbara Conley and their children stopped by for a visit with us. They were on their way to the Totem Pole town of Ketchikan, Alaska, via Seattle, where Bob is now working on some more roads. We spent a very enjoyable evening, Barbara and I exchanging home town gossip while Jack and Bob shoveled and smoothed dirt, the earth kind, I mean.

Jack and I went to the P. T. A. meeting of the Talkeetna School about six weeks ago. The Superintendent of the Anchorage School System spoke on the over crowded conditions existing in the whole school system. It seems that over 1000 more children registered for school this year than last and they expect 1400 more to register next year—so—Mr. Walker, you aren't alone in headaches of overcrowded conditions, and like you their school bonds were voted for the yes votes outnumbering the no. All they are asking for here is two more school buildings the same size as the Talkeetna School which has a capacity of 600 and is full. The P. T. A. president is a man and a good many of the committee are men. Nice, don't you ladies think? It is rumored that the Anchorage High School will have triple sessions next year, they are on double now. Of course they have plans for more class rooms but they won't be completed by next term. So much for our schools here in the Anchorage School District.

You should see us, me and a couple of friends, one with a station wagon, go shopping on bargain day. Thursday the newspaper comes out with all the sales in it. We are interested in the grocery sales, so we figure out what we want and where the article is on sale at the lowest price, sometimes we aren't so particular—if something is on sale we buy it whether we need it then or not. Sometime we might need it—and what woman can resist a bargain? By the time we get to the last store the station-wagon is so full of groceries that we are a little embarrassed about having the fellow carry out our last purchases, The usual remark is, "Looks like you've been shopping." That we have!! Our legs are weary and our shoes are worn thinner, but we are happy, we found some bargains.

It rained for eighteen days and eighteen nights, from July 1st to July 19th, it would pour down rain one day, sprinkle the next then be cloudy and miserable the next, then start all over again—I was beginning to think there was no such thing as sunshine up here, but on July 19th the sun came up bright and early, around 2:00 a. m. and what a beautiful day! You've never seen a blue sky until you've seen one in Alaska.

The weather that Saturday really gave us picnic fever. So the Klippels and Klienmans began talking about a picnic for Sunday. Charlie was with us at that time and he thought it would be a good idea and he would show us just the spot to go—and just maybe the fishermen and fisherwomen might get a chance to show their skill. There were twelve of us to load into the panel truck and Klienman's sedan along with all the makings of a real picnic dinner. Charlie rode with us in the truck where he spent most of the time with his head out of the window scanning the woods for wild animals and the steep sides of the mountains for the ever elusive mountain goat. We started out the Palmer Highway from Mt. View about 10:00 a. m.

The highway runs north-east through Fort Richardson, emerging onto open country road, oiled by the way, lined on both sides with wooded areas of spruce and birch trees. Every tree, shrub and wild flower was bright and clean, all the dust washed away with the rain. Their colors were bright and beautiful.

After leaving the Military Reservation and about 13 miles from Anchorage we crossed the Eagle River bridge. The river is a glacial stream and has a milky appearance due to the grinding of the shale and rock caused by the descent of the glacier. The river at this point is narrow and deep and very swift. There is a public trailer park here where the weary traveler may stop and rest awhile. About five miles further along the way we came to Chugiak, here there is an U. S. Post Office and Trading Post. Chugiak overlooks the tidewaters of the Knik Arm of Cook Inlet. From here we have a wonderful view of the famous Mt. McKinley and surrounding mountains —140 miles northwest. The day was so bright and the atmosphere so clear that we all stopped and took a picture of this magnificent view, with majestic Mt. McKinley in the back ground.

At mile 26 we crossed the Eklutna River which drains from the Eklutna Lake in the mountain above. This river is the sight of the Anchorage hydro-electric power plant and dam. Another 10 miles or so brought us to the Goat Creek Settlement. Goat Creek affords the fisherman the pleasure of catching trout as well as being a favorite camping site. The famous "slide area" of Pioneer Peak is visible a short distance from here, where erosion creates an intermitant spectacle of rock and shale roaring down the steep face of the mountain.

We traveled along the south shore of Knik Arm and as we topped a rise after leaving Goat Creek, we looked upon a carpet of gorgeous wild flowers in a low swampy area, known as Eklutna Flats. For the next four miles we saw a profusion of gorgeous wildflowers forming a multi-colored carpet of pink and gold "shooting stars," with blue and violet tints of wild iris. Here a color photographer can film some of the most beautiful wild flowers of the North Country. In this colorful setting the C. A. A. have their radio towers.

About 40 miles from Anchorage is the Knik River bridge. Knik River is a glacial stream issuing from the Knik Glacier. Every July or August this glacier, which blocks the gorge forming the outlet to Lake George, thaws sufficiently to weaken the dam of ice holding back the swollen waters of the lake. Suddenly the great wall of ice breaks loose with a thundering roar, and the lake practically drains itself, while the Knik River water raises from 7 to 8 feet. This is one of the "ten wonders of the world," and is the only known "self-dumping lakes" in the world. Great blocks of ice and silt laden water roar down the river to Cook Inlet. Here in Alaska those who are inclined to, may, by paying a dollar, place a bet as to the exact day, hour, minute and second that Lake George's ice block will give away. This is called the Lake George Ice Pool.

One more river to cross—then to Palmer. The Matanuska is another glacial stream originating from the Matanuska Glacier high in the Chugach Mountains. Palmer is the shopping center of the Matanuska Valley residents. It is 50 miles by highway from Anchorage and lies just off the Glenn Highway the main artery into Alaska. Glenn Highway connects with the Alaska Highway at Tok Junction, about 335 miles north-east of Anchorage. The Matanuska Valley is the largest fertile agricultural district in the Territory of Alaska. We will make a trip through the valley at a later date.

At Palmer we all stopped and conferred with Charlie about the best place to go. We had a choice—Fish Creek or Willow Creek. We chose to go to Willow Creek because it was further away and we had plenty of time. We turned due east out of Palmer onto the Finger Lake Road. We saw many truck-farms and dairies along this route. We drove along the shore of Lake Wasilla for several miles, a beautiful lake, the shore lined with trees, shrubs and wild flowers. About 16 miles from Palmer over rough,dusty, gravelled roads is the small village of Wasilla, located midway between Wasilla Lake and Louise Lake. Wasilla, was named for an old Eskimo, who lived there. He was famous in his own right, for the snowshoes he made. The Army liked the old fellows work so well that during the war they purchased his snowshoes for the soldiers here. As far as towns go, most of these up here are just wide places in the road, consisting of a service station maybe a garage, a general store and perhaps lodging of sorts. We turned north out of Wasilla and traveled through a forest of birch, where we couldn't see much on either side of the road. About this time we were getting complaints of hunger, so we were looking for a picnic spot. We found just the place we wanted, on the bank of the Little Susitna River, where the Forestry Service had cleared a place just for picnikers. At this point the river is very swift and tumbles over huge boulders, sending a fine spray over the surrounding area. After warning the children to stay away from the slippery rocks near the swift river, where they might fall in, one of them proceeded to slip off into a quiet pool of water and had to spend the picnic time wrapped in a towel. After consuming large quantities of picnic lunch we resumed our journey up the river. This is indeed a beautiful river. It tumbles over rocks and around islands of trees and rocks, throwing a fine mist over the flowers and shrubs along the banks. Every picnic spot along the bank was occupied that Sunday.We left the Little Susitna River to go on its merry way while we turned north into the mountains.

The road here narrowed down somewhat and is very steep, there were well spaced turn out spots in case one met another car coming down, and we did several times. There are several gold mines in these hills, some are in operation now and some are abandoned for the time being while the owners try to scrape up some more money to operate on. The Independence mine is the most properous looking, it seems to be going full tilt and has modern equipment and buildings. Tom figured that there should be some gold in some of the creeks around this part of the country so he purchased a gold pan in Palmer.

We must have traveled two or three miles of this narrow winding road when we finally came to the top of the divide. Up here where the snow lays deep in the winter time and late into the spring the plants are very small, some are vine like and cling close to the ground. There must be a dozen or so different kinds of small plants, each with a flower. So many different colors and shapes, it gave the appearance of a large carpet in various shades of green dotted over with yellow, pink, lavender and white minute flowers. They call this vegetation "tundra." There was still a large patch of snow here, near the road, so California Tourist style everyone, kids and adults alike had to get out and have a snowball fight. The snow had a frozen crust on it that was plenty slippery, so there were a few spills taken and one youngster slid to the bottom of the canyon.

The decent into the Willow Creek Valley was over a steeper and narrower road where they had to make a switch-back or two. The Valley is beautiful and green, but wild and uninhabited. They say it is great moose hunting country, although we didn't see one. We followed the winding Willow Creek several miles until we found a nice pebbly beach, there we stopped and everyone tumbled out of the cars and scattered like a covey of quail. The fishermen gathered their gear and headed for the river, the youngsters spotted some beaver dams in a side creek and headed for same and some looked for the various wild-flowers, Tom took his gold-pan and headed up a small creek to pan for gold, Jack backed his truck to the river edge and proceeded to wash the mud and dust of Anchorage off its panel-sides, and Mrs. Klienman and I spread our blankets on the sandy, I mean pebbly beach, and took a siesta in the warm afternoon sun. There were quite a few mosquitos around there, they finally won out over the fishermen. We had decided to stay there until sundown, but by 7:30 p. m. we thought we'd better start home as we were about 100 miles from Anchorage. The fishermen caught no fish, Tom didn't make a gold strike, but we started home anyway. We arrived in Palmer again and it was about 9:00 p. m. We bought several pounds of wieners and drove to the Knik River for a marshmallow and wiener roast. It was about 9:30 when we stopped at the Knik River Bridge and drove into the sands of the river. The sun was just setting over the Susitna Mountains north-west. The most beautiful sight I ever saw. The sky was crimson and gold with a few dark lavender clouds, the trees along the river bank were silhouetted against this flaming sky. The photographers just couldn't contain themselves, they proceeded to take a picture of this spectacular sunset. Incidently the sunset picture of this gorgeous scene turned out beautifully, also one taken of Mt. McKinley in the sunset glow. We had a wonderful spot for a wiener roast down in a large hole that had been dug by the current of the river when it was running at capacity. Of course some killjoy had to remind us that maybe Lake George's ice block would thaw out at this time, but we figured we could get out in time, so we just went ahead and gorged ourselves on hot-dogs. We arrived home about 11:00 p. m. just at darkness was decending on us. We had decided that we may never come to this great country again so we are going to see as much of it as we can.

Our weather is getting rather cool now. The lowest night temperature averaging below 28 degrees and the highest daytime temperature is around 40 degrees. Somtimes we get a real hot day when the mercury soars to 50.

Hope this finds all you folks well and happy, as it leaves us the same.

Best wishes,
Ruth Klippel

SANTEE...

The newest project to the Santee Girl Scouts is the work they are doing on the float that will be entered by District 2 of the Girl Scouts in the Mother Goose Parade. The lettering is being painted and glittered, flowers made, framework 'carpentered', and numerous other interesting things done by these energetic girls.

Last week, one hundred and thirty five Santee Girl Scouts and their parents enjoyed the potluck at Fellowship Hall on Tuesday night. Saturday, they attended the Recruit Brigade Review at the Naval Training Station at which Mrs. Stephen King, San Diego County Council President, was the honored guest. After the Review, punch and cookies were served, and a tour made of the land locked training ship, the USS Recruit.

Another Santee girl has made good in the Mother Goose Parade contest. Last year Marilyn Bryant and Rita Estrada were runners-up in the contest, and this year Evelyn Davis, who was a graduate of the 1950 class of Santee School, has been elected Princess.

The Edgemoor Employees Club let the witches and goblins in one night early and they cavorted all over the place Thursday at the party held in the recreation room. Kay Milligan's Dance band, impersonations by Jimmy McAdams, and accordion music by Lon Skipper added to the evening's entertainment.

Mrs. Mary Belle Goldsberry, the widow of Charles Goldsberry, who passed away last December, died at her home in Santee Wednesday morning. She is survived by her sister, Miss Catherine Carmichael, a daughter, Mrs. Jean Campbell of Downey, and two sons, Harry and Foster of San Diego, and Douglas Foster of Santa Cruz. Funeral services were held in the Bonham Chapel, by Rev. Lax of El Cajon's Episcopal Church.

The Mettey Realty office has opened in its new building on Mission Avenue. The Metteys with their daughter, Kathy, moved here about a year ago when they bought the Topp Ranch ,and Mr. Mettey has been associated until recently with the Ed Monti Realty Office.

As its first official duty, the Student Council of the Santee School had the choice of the best Hallowe'en Costume entered in the School annual costume parade Friday morning. Dale Brown, as President, led the group in its voting, and closed the day following another hilarious Hallowe'en Carnival in the Clean-up procedure around the school.

To Mrs. Jack Bischoff, Chairman of the Santee PTA's Ways and Means Committee, and her efficient organization of the affair go the thanks of the Community for the entertainment provided to the children of the community on this sometimes hectic night.

The first grade of the Santee school has been moved to the nearly completed Cafetorium from the Fellowship Hall which has been loaned by the Methodist Church for the past two months. The Cafeteria, serving a 25 cent lunch will open in a week.

"Getting out the Vote" was the campaign the Cub and Boy Scouts of Santee were on last Saturday morning. Under the direction of Mr. Willard Westphall, the community was zoned and covered in fine style Captain Harold Stallings of the Los Angeles Sheriff's Office will be the Lay Speaker on November 16, as a culmination of the week's Evangelistic program. Each night of next week at 7:30 p. m., the church will have Rev. Norcross direct the evening's worship in the sanctuary.

Under the inspiration of Mrs. Perry Shipman, the room used by the fourth and fifth graders as their Sunday School room, has blossomed out in a new powder blue and maroon garb. In addition each child has painted his own chair a harmonizing shade. All this work has been done by the group itself on Saturdays, and is now open for inspection.

The Board of Trustes of the Santee School wil meet tonight at 7:30, and invites all citizens of the community to attend.
